REF DEPT INDEXES

L'Année Philologique indexes international journal articles and books covering classical Greek and Latin studies from prehistoric origins to approximately 800 A.D. Instructions on use of the index are in French, so translation skills are helpful but not necessary.

1. To find books or articles about a classical author or writings:

- Refer to Part I (Première Partie; "Auteurs et Textes").
- Locate the author or work you are interested in. Authors are listed under the Latin form of the name in alphabetical order. Anonymous classics are generally listed by title. An index to literary categories such as Philosophica, Comica, Patres, etc., is located at the back of each volume under "Index des Rubriques Collectives."

2. To find books or articles about a subject:

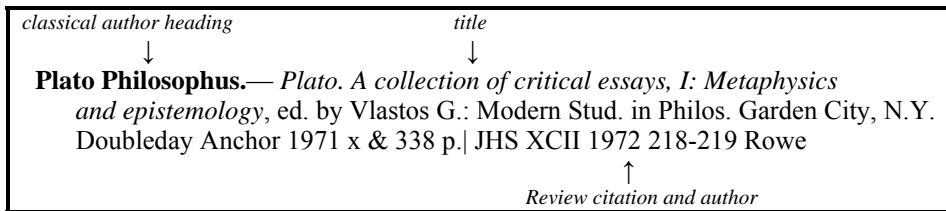

- Refer to Part II ("Deuxième Partie") of the Table of Contents ("Table des Divisions") at the front of each volume.
- Turn to the page numbers listed next to the appropriate broad subject category. There is no index to specific subject areas.
- Example from Deuxième Partie, Table des Divisions:

D. Histoire religieuse et mythologie.
Generalia. Religions diverses. Religions comparées.
Bibliographie, Encyclopédies, Dictionnaires, Recueils...	766
Varia.....	767
Religion et mythologie grecque.....	777
Religion et mythologie italique et romaine.....	781

3. Select your citations. Titles of citations are in italics. Periodical volume numbers are in Roman numerals. Reviews of the citations as well as any editorial comments follow a vertical line ( | ). "Cf." means "look under". When it appears next to a citation, look under the classical name, item number, subject section, or earlier issue of L'Année indicated.

- Sample citations:

From Part I (Première Partie, "Auteurs et Textes"):

From Part II (Deuxième Partie):

4. Find the full title of the periodical. Periodical titles are abbreviated, so you must refer to the listing of periodicals ("Index des Périodiques Dépouillés") in the front of each volume to get the full title of the periodical.
5. Find the call number and location of the journal or book. Search by TITLE in CHINOOK online catalog typing in the title of the journal or book.

Note: Indexes to classical names, humanists, authors of the articles cited, and a geographical index are located at the back of each volume.
