George Creamer was a prominent young attorney and University of Colorado alumnus who amassed a remarkable collection of books. Creamer died in 1974. Because he “dearly loved” his alma mater, his parents Anna and Nathan H. Creamer donated his library to the Special Collections Department of the University Libraries in 1979.

Creamer began collecting at the age of nine, and the books and ephemera listed below were his life-long passion. We are pleased to make his library, comprising more than 2000 volumes, more widely available to patrons through this on-line checklist. This list is the most accurate representation of the uncataloged George L. Creamer holdings in the Special Collections Department. Records for 300 volumes are in the University Libraries’ Chinook on-line catalog.

The George L. Creamer Library consists primarily of nineteenth century fiction. However, the diverse collection also includes works from the sixteenth century through the twentieth century. Among the books are: a childhood scrapbook of King Edward VII of Great Britain; a collection of seventeenth and eighteenth century prayer books; numerous books, prints, and proofs illustrated by George Cruikshank, including an 1852 edition of Uncle Tom’s Cabin; the first edition (1927) of Now We Are Six by A. A. Milne; the third edition (1609) of the Faerie Queen, by Edmund Spenser; a completely handwritten copy of Fables by John Gay, written in 1751; and various books on Chinese and Japanese art and culture. The Library also contains 347 children’s books, chiefly modern early and first editions and international fairy-tales and fables. We hope this list will be helpful to you as you conduct your research or browse for pleasure. Special Collections welcomes your comments, inquiries, and suggestions.
